

Mother Votes Against Drop-In Company

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you need another vote against drop-in company, you've got mine. Here's the way it is at our house:

I have two-month-old twins, a son who will be a year old next week, a three-year-old daughter and another little girl who just started school. All but one of these children are adopted.

I arise at 5:30 a.m., fix breakfast for my husband, start the laundry going, do a little ironing and fold some diapers. At 8:30 I drive my husband to work and the five-year-old to school. The other kids are piled in the station wagon. From then on it's go, go, go.

Last week I was rushing around trying to get everything done so I'd be on time for bowling league. Two minutes after the sitter arrived, in walks my mother-in-law. She could see I was on my way but she sat down anyway. Finally I said, "I'm sorry but I was just leaving."

She asked, "Leaving for where?" When I said, "Bowling," she blew up — said I certainly didn't need any more exercise with all those kids. I stood there dumbfounded when she called me "crazy" for taking the twins when their mother (my sister) had died in childbirth.

I walked past her and muttered, "Please call next time — for your sake as well as mine." She hasn't dropped in since.

So, Ann, you've got a soul-mate in Columbus. Dear Soulmate: Bravo. I applaud the courageous manner in which you protect your integrity.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you have an impressive list of consultants who help you with your answers pertaining to medicine, psychiatry, law, religious matters, and so on. Why in the world didn't you seek the advice of a nutrition expert before you told the mother that "butter is butter — whether it's on bread or whether you fry an egg in it."

When butter if fried it changes its chemical composition, as any dietician will tell you. Young children should not eat eggs fried in butter.

How about ten swats with an aluminum fry pan? — Bend, Cre.

Dear Bend: Sorry, dearie. You're wrong. I've got the National Dairy Council on my side. They backed up my statement (which had been previously checked with a nutrition expert). I quote the National Dairy Council: "If a child has a normal digestive tract, he will not be harmed by eating eggs fried in butter. Butter is butter — and the chemical composition does not change when butter is heated. It does change, however, if it

Excessive Tree Trims Protested by Students

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — About 30 students carrying tree limbs, planis and a young dogwood tree marched to the administration office at the University of Oregon, demanding a moratorium on what they called excessive trimming and pruning of campus trees and shrubs.

The matter was discussed Thursday and the administration agreed that physical plant personnel would do less pruning.

is burned." I assumed the mother who wrote knows how to fry an egg without burning it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I enjoy your column and respect your mature judgment, but I feel obliged to correct a statement you made recently. When the teen-ager who complained that her father's denture-clicking was driving her crazy, you said, "Noisy dentures mean a poor fit." This is wrong.

The only time a person's upper and lower teeth (true or false) normally touch is while eating. The rest of the time, the muscles keep the lower jaw open. This is called freeway space. The dad with the clicking dentures does not have enough freeway space. He should tell his dentist about the problem. It can be remedied. — W.L. National School of Dental Technology, Philadelphia.

Dear W.L.: Thanks for the correction. My dental consultant tells me you are right. But he added, "Upper and lower teeth do touch about 2,000 times a day — when a person swallows."

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W.A.G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

Finding a vulnerable sacrifice against an opposing non-vulnerable, four-spade contract is unusual. Even more unusual is when these aggressive tactics result in pushing the opponents beyond their depth as a result of a superb defensive play.

Witness how this happened in one of the most exciting pensated for by his distribution.

After South leaped to the spade game, Eisenberg competed to five hearts. Who could blame him? He had five hearts headed by the A-K-Q and his partner had bid the suit at the three level! South took the push to five spades in hopes he could make the contract.

When the hand had been played in the closed room, The Aces were allowed to play in four spades, a contract easily fulfilled. The play at five spades was being viewed by over 600 excited bridge fans who were aware of the result in the closed room.

West, Billy Eisenberg, made the opening lead of the heart king. Dummy and declarer followed, and East, Bob Hamman, played the jack! The significance of this play was apparent to all viewers. (A panel of commentators explained the more subtle variations to an audience watching on a Bridge-O-Rama board.)

Since Hamman was known to have a long heart suit, the play of the jack carried a specific message. It was a suit-preference signal, asking West to lead the higher ranking of the two side suits, clubs and diamonds.

Amid the groans of the Houston rooters, Eisenberg followed Hamman's signal and led a diamond for the ruff. The club ace defeated the contract one trick and resulted in a large gain for The Aces.

This hand was played at a

Trinity's New Councilmen, Officers Listed

Officers and councilmen have been elected at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Jack Mills is the new vice president; David Brooker, secretary; Eugene Sowers, treasurer, and Dr. John Palmquist, financial secretary.

Councilmen elected for three-year terms are Vernon Akins, Brooks Dodd, Dr. Karle Erickson, Dr. George Savage and Sowers. A two-year term will be filled by Jermond Ellefson and a one-year term, Mrs. William Chardler.

Mills, who now is in charge of the council, appointed standing committee heads: Claire Brann, Christian education; Viola Chardler, evangelism; Ray Simonsen, finance; Brooks Dodd, membership; Palmquist, music and worship; Victor Hellesland, property; David Henderson, social ministry, and Ronald Veara, stewardship.

The Rev. James Nelson, pastor, is in charge of the committee on ministry.

Kaukauna Priest 1 of 3 to Receive New Assignments

GREEN BAY — Three pastoral changes in the Green Bay Diocese have been announced by the Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop.

The Rev. Harold Beernsten, associate pastor at Holy Cross, Kaukauna, has received his first pastorate at St. Josaphat, Oshkosh.

He succeeds the Rev. Thaddeus Koszarek, who will replace the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John S. Landowski as pastor of St. Mary, Manitowoc. The latter, who is retiring, has been pastor there since 1938. These changes are effective Feb. 1.

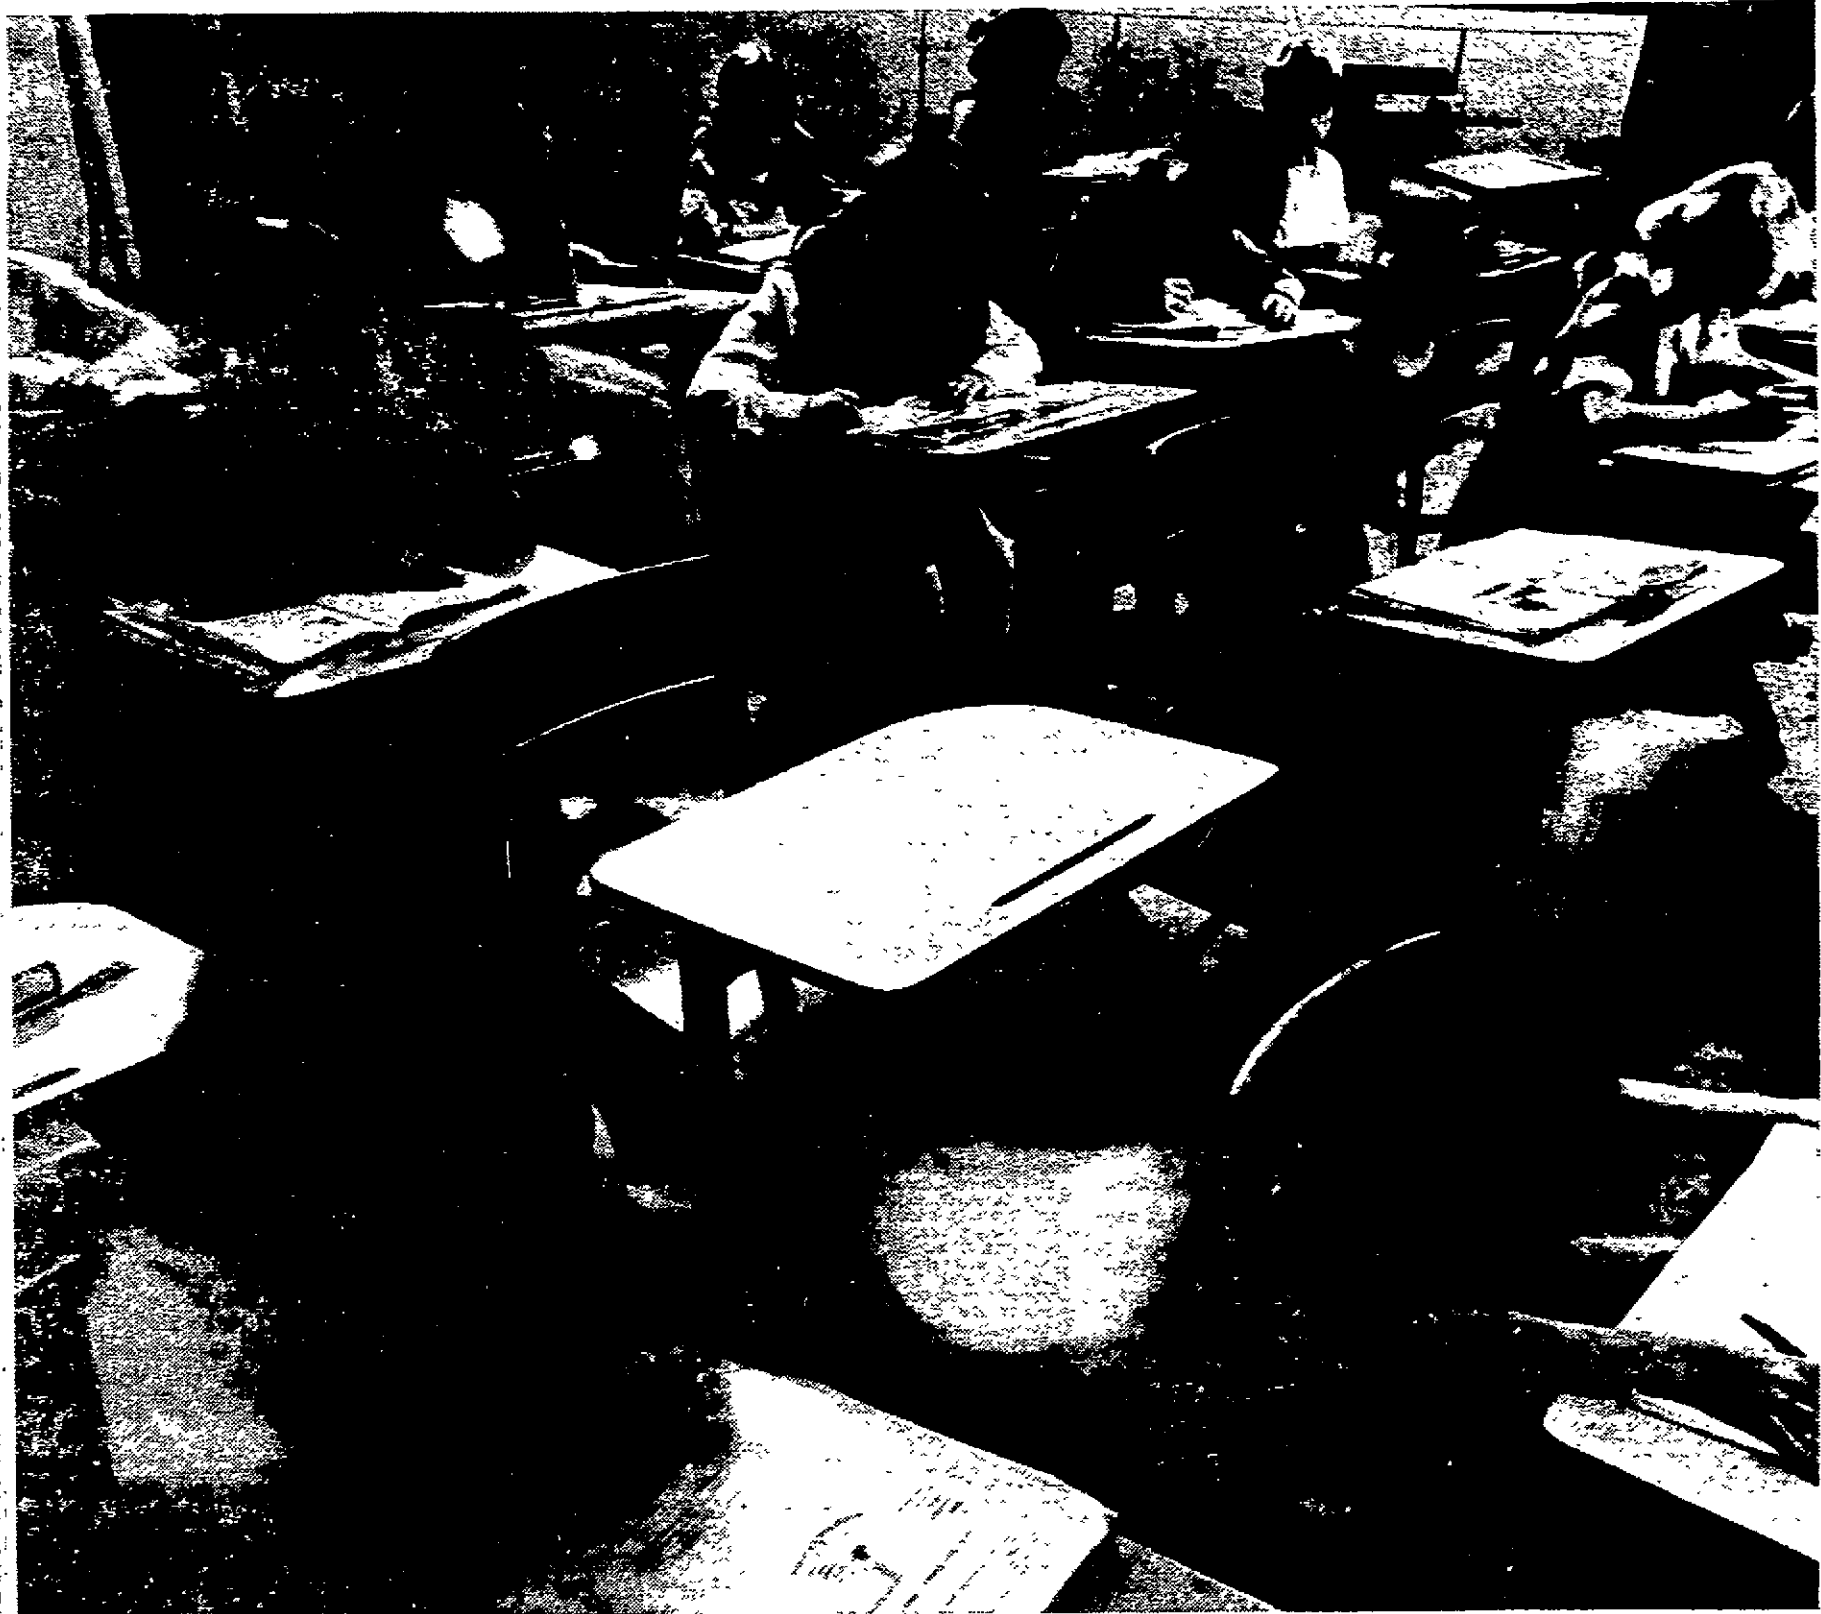

Also retiring at Manitowoc is the Very Rev. Clement P. Kern, pastor for 21 years at St. Paul. His retirement is effective Tuesday.

A reception in honor of Beernsten has been set after the 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. masses Sunday.

Drunk drivers kill and injure our children.

Last year, almost 6,000 children under 15 years old were killed in traffic accidents. Countless thousands were seriously injured.

No one can be sure how many drunken drivers were responsible. But even one death or one injury is one too many.

What can you do?

Remember, it's not the drink that kills. It's the drunk, the problem drinker, the abusive drinker, the drunk driver.

Remember, drunk drivers may be sick, and we've got to give them help.

Gilmore Top ABA 'Secret' Pick

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The American Basketball Association armed itself Friday for the upcoming pro basketball bidding war and the Kentucky Colonels were given the mission of signing Artis Gilmore, this year's multi-million dollar baby.

With Gilmore reportedly talking in terms of a record $2.7 million to sign, it was learned the successful and ambitious Colonels were the only team willing to gamble that they could satisfy him as the ABA once again beat the rival National Basketball Association to the punch and held a secret draft prior to today's fourth annual All-Star game.

At the outset of the draft it was learned that Gilmore's name was put up for any team willing to pay the price, and General Manager Mike Storen of the Colonels was the only one who stepped front and center.

If the past means anything the Colonels have good reason to believe they can land the 7-foot-2 Jacksonville center, the most sought after collegian in the country.

Lofty Salaries
Since Kentucky came under new owners who were willing to loosen the purse strings, the Colonels signed All-American Dan Issel for $1.4 million. Mike Pratt for $400,000 and Bobby Croft for $100,000 last year.

Issel's contract was the highest at the time, later surpassed by Bob Lanier and Pete Maravich, who signed for close to $2 million each with the NBA.

With the NBA draft not scheduled until later in the year, the Colonels and the rest of the ABA have a good head start again in the declared war for this year's college crop.

However, the ABA apparently surrendered John Roche of South Carolina and Austin Carr of Notre Dame as lost to the NBA. Both are ranked right behind Gilmore but neither was picked in these first two rounds.

Pick McDaniel
Following Kentucky, Utah used the top pick, which it acquired in an earlier trade with Texas, to choose 7-0 Jim McDaniel of Western Kentucky, considered the second best center behind Gilmore in the college ranks.

Carolina then chose Elmore Smith, 7-1, from Kentucky State and Pittsburgh followed with Howard Porter, 6-7, of Villanova. Denver, which had its own first round pick taken away for signing Ralph Simpson as a hardship case last year before he was graduated, acquired another pick in an earlier trade with the Floridians and chose Ken Durrett, 6-6, of LaSalle. However, the Rockets turned around and traded him to Virginia, the next selector, for the Squires' first pick and a player to be named later. Denver then picked Cliff Meely of Colorado.

Memphis then took 6-10 Randy Denton of Duke and Virginia, whose first pick in the round had been acquired from New York, used its choice acquired from Kentucky to pick Willie Soujourner, 6-8, of Weber State.

Utah, Tulane Stars
Kentucky already had used its pick acquired from Indiana to choose Gilmore; Texas, with a pick acquired from Utah, selected Stan Love, 6-7, of Oregon, and Virginia, with its own first round pick, chose Dana Lewis, 6-10, who was red-shirted at Tulane.

In the second round, it was reported Texas decided on Roger Brown of Kansas; Carolina, Rich Yunkus of Georgia Tech; Denver, Marv Roberts of Utah State; Pittsburgh, Levi Wyatt, Alcorn A&M; Floridians, Willie Long, New Mexico; New York, Charlie Davis, Wake Forest and Bob Kissane, Holy Cross; Indiana, Darrell Hillman, San Jose;

Six Persons Injured In Appleton Accidents

Several persons were injured in Appleton traffic accidents in the past 24 hours, and four sought hospital treatment, three of them for a two-car collision early today at Douglas and Brewster streets.

Police said that autos driven by Thomas L. Aerts, 30, of 2191 Marcella St., Kimberly, and Homer M. Frazier, 17, 11 Meadowbrook Court, collided in that intersection shortly before 2 a.m.

Rita J. Aerts, 29, same Kimberly address, went to Appleton Memorial Hospital by private car for a head cut. Two passengers in the Frazier auto, Gary H. Hannemann, 19, 1231 Marquette St., and Mark N. Griesbach, 18, 1908 N. Nicholas St., went to the same hospital for head bumps and bruises. Frazier sustained an injury not specified on a report.

Taken to Hospital
Christine Larsen, 6, 931 W. Winnebago St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Gold Cross ambulance for observation of a shoulder injury after a collision on W. College Avenue Friday evening. Police said a car driven by Margaret Texas, Garry Nelson, Duquesne and Denver, Jim Rose, Western Kentucky.

Sidney Wicks, the UCLA star, also was a reported late ABA choice by Texas.

Entire Dallas Team Should Wear No. 13

MIAMI — Remind me never to get reservations on the same plane as the Dallas Cowboys.

Keep your distance from them in a thunderstorm.

These guys would get snake-bit in Ireland. They would have pulled strings to get outside staterooms on the Titanic. They would have asked Amelia Earhart if she had room for one more. They would drown in a camel caravan.

If I were these guys, I would go home and hide under the bed. I wouldn't answer the doorbell. I wouldn't answer the phone.

If they got four aces, they should fold the hand. They should stop trying to fade Old Man Fate. Something about them ticks him off.

They've got the ashen touch. They'd pick the lifeboat with the leak in it. The whole team should wear No. 13. They'd find a four-leaf clover in a patch of poison ivy.

They search around for 59 minutes and 51 seconds of every football game to find a way to lose. They know it's there someplace and they never give up 'til they find it.

They lost the big game once with first-and-2 to tie the score. They lost the next time on the last play on a QB sneak by Bart Starr, who is no threat at all to Jim Brown in total yardage.

They uncovered the "ricochet pass" in the Super Bowl Sunday.

Too Much Effort

They had a 6-0 lead and were successfully manhandling the Baltimore Colts when the Colts' quarterback, John Unitas, threw a pass which went through more hands than the swag in a French jewel heist. If it bounces from a Colt to a Colt, it's incomplete and penalized. But a Cowboy had the presence of mind to tip it again in between. It was probably the uninitiated pass Unitas ever threw, but it went to John Mackey for a 75-yard touchdown.

Needless to say, Dallas fumbled away one touchdown on the 1-foot line. It came on what coaches like to call "second effort". If Duane Thomas settles for 100 per cent effort, the game is out of reach because the score would be 20-6 on the next play. When the effort meter reached 108 per cent fate swatted him on the helmet. Jerry Logan was merely the agent.

A field-goal attempt by Baltimore missed badly, but the 52-yard attempt mysteriously backs up on the way into the end zone and stops at the 1-foot line.

Dallas could get kicked to death by a rabbit's foot. They hit John Unitas so hard in the second quarter that he had to leave the game. Usually, you throw a party when you knock Unitas out of the game. Dallas should have thrown a fit, should have fallen on the ground, held their breath and called for their security blanket. They could fall in a bucket of roses and there'd be a polecat in it.

The third and last round of this secret draft was to be held today before the All-Star game, and the remaining rounds of the draft to be completed later in the year.

We take you now to the fourth quarter and reconstruct the disaster which begins, like a card game with a hustler, like it was going to be their lucky night. Baltimore had the ball on the Dallas 30-yard-line when Earl Morrall, who had replaced Unitas, turned out to be (naturally) or unnaturally, if you will) the more effective quarterback Louisa May Alcott would turn out to be Samny Baugh against Dallas.

Fumble for a Touchback
Morrall later called on a substitute halfback, Sam Havrilak, who passed to a Baltimore end, Ed Hinton. Hinton fumbled the ball and it bobbed through the end zone for a touchback. Dallas has the ball on its 20 with a touchdown lead and only 8 minutes to play.

They weren't about to take this standing up. They threw in the hand and called for fresh cards. They called on the ricochet pass. It bounced off Cowboy Walt Garrison's hands into Colt Rick Volk's. In 10 seconds, Baltimore has tied the score, 13-13.

But the Cowboys have 7 minutes to turn this slow leak into a major flood. They punt Baltimore into a hole with 2 minutes to play. Baltimore has to kick out of its end zone and, unless a typhoon comes up, the kick is going to put Dallas perilously close to field goal range with 1:52 to play. They got the ball on the Baltimore 48. You would have to back their play at the crap table at this point. The percentage is all theirs, right?

Hah?
Their quarterback gets sacked because he stands there holding the ball as if he is waiting for a guy coming from downtown by taxi or parachute to catch it. He could have got a haircut while waiting to throw it. It took so long, several of his teammates got caught holding.

Out of Range
So Dallas is back to its 27-yard-line. This is well out of field-goal range. In fact, it's well out of artillery range. You might be inclined to pack it in at this point and hope for the sudden-death overtime.

But Craig Morton went to the ricochet pass. He bounced it off his halfback, Dan Reeves.

I didn't see the hand that pushed it toward Baltimore's linebacker, Mike Curtis, but I know it was there.

Baltimore now has the ball in field-goal range. Dallas has found the black cat once again, the dark lining in the silver cloud. The pot at the end of the rainbow doesn't have gold in it.

Dallas was a reincarnation team. They perished as a team of glamor queens some years ago and came back as drudges. But when the Prince put the glass slipper on, they said "Ouch". The fairy godmother, as usual, brought her umbrella down over their heads. They got in the pumpkin and somebody made pie out of them. It's a team that should go out only on Halloween.

It was the kind of game you used to have to interrupt every time a streetcar came along. You were half-surprised all the guys had uniforms. The last time I saw a game this sloppy half the kids were wearing one of Mom's kettles for helmets and their numbers were drawn on upside-down in crayon.

Rumor has it, when they tried to give the Vincent T. Lombardi Trophy to a winning team, it began to twitch violently. It had all the class of a four-round fight in a Holyoke arena.

Schools Vote On New Cage Tournney Plan

STEVENS POINT (AP) — Member schools of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association are voting this week on a proposal to experiment with a separate high school basketball meet for schools with enrollments of 400 and under.

The proposal was submitted by the WIAA advisory board to the association's board of control last weekend. A question-

Leonard Schlitz

Crystal Lake, Illinois (Former Appleton resident) Age 77, passed away Friday. He was born May 25, 1893 in New London, Wisconsin. He was preceded in death by his first wife, Elma Wundrow. Survivors include his wife Ruth Holm Hopper Schlitz. Committal services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the Riverside Cemetery Chapel, with the Rev. Ernest S. Heeren officiating.

Harold W. Wunderlich

308 N. Summit St. Appleton Age 63. He passed away at 10 a.m. Friday after an extended illness. He was born Feb. 25, 1907 in the town of Ellington, and had been a resident of the city of Appleton for the past 25 years. Mr. Wunderlich was a partner in the Wunderlich Brother's Construction Co. The Wunderlich firm built many highway structures throughout Wisconsin including the East College Ave. bridge in Appleton. He was a member of Mr. Olive Lutheran Church. Survivors include his wife Hazel; two daughters, Mrs. Ronald (Ruth Ann) Staudenraus of Appleton; Mrs. Eric (Janet) Skudt, Rochester, Minn.; one son Ronald of Menasha; five grandsons; four sisters Mrs. Edna Bleick of Appleton; Mrs. E. W. Stoker of Yucapca, Calif.; Mrs. Milton Schulz of Appleton; Mrs. Frank Larabee of Palatine, Ill.; four brothers, Ora of Rt. 1, Hortonville; Carlye of Greenville; Roy and Walter both of Appleton. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday from Mt. Olive Lutheran Church with the Rev. M. A. Schroeder officiating. Interment will be in the Ellington Lutheran Cemetery. Friends may call at the Bretschneider-Treffin Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Sunday till 10 a.m. Monday then after 11 a.m. at the church till the time of services. A memorial has been established for the Mt. Olive Lutheran School.

Menasha Youth Gets Probation For Stealing

A former clothing salesman who took an estimated $800 to $900 from his employer for over a year was placed on two years' probation this morning in the Circuit Court.

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell withheld a reformatory term for James Wallace, 20, of 437 1/2 First St., Menasha. The youth had pleaded guilty earlier this month and was free on a $1,000 signature bond.

Detectives charged that Wallace had stolen the store's money when he worked at the W.A. Close store, 200 E. College Ave., between April and Nov. 4 of 1970. He had worked there since September of 1969.

Parnell directed an agent of the State Department of Health and Social Services to work out a settlement agreement, if possible, between Wallace and the store for making restitution. Wallace must pay court costs.

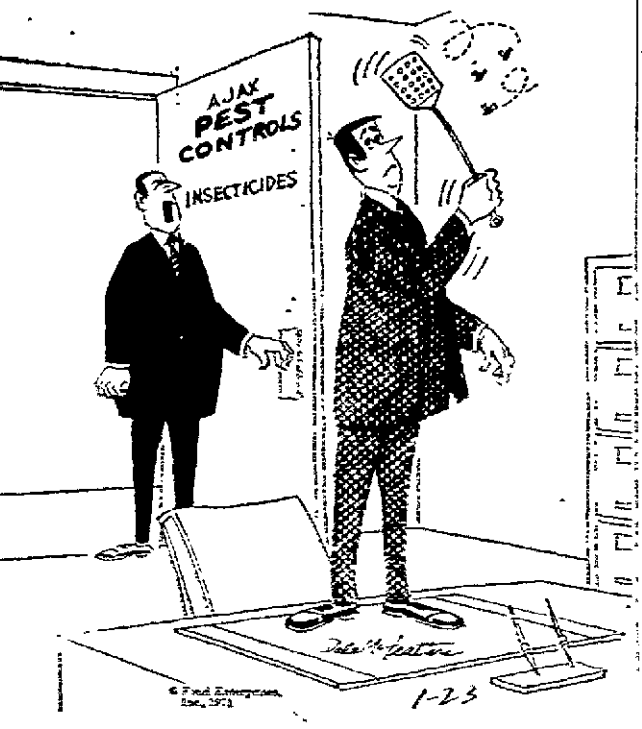

Authorities said Wallace would fail to ring up a customer's purchase on the cash register, then destroy sales receipts and pocket the money.

Jingo Says Save Date For YMCA Fun Fair

Auxiliary Sponsoring All-Out Event For March 27-28 Throughout Building

BY JINGO

The echoes of a planning session at the Appleton YMCA has reached Jingo's ears. The resulting advice: Mark that Calendar in red pencil for March 27 and March 28.

Two days of fun for the whole community and its surrounding countryside is on tap at the Y, which will be transformed into include a sort of import center with unusual items on display. Handball, racketball, golf will be a feature for activists in the community. There may be a pool show, student basketball activity and even musical and dramatic entertainment throughout both days in the proposed "Y Theater" being set up for the occasion.

Saturday night there will be an honest-to-goodness square dance for those who like this activity and in another part of the building a dance will be going on for young people, complete with band.

30 Groups So Far

All the details haven't been worked out yet, but the clubs of the Appleton YMCA have taken to the idea that started with the Y Auxiliary, sponsors of the project. This is the group of women who organized about six years ago to donate hours of service to the YMCA and its multi-program. When they took this on, they really started a new record of hours that might even overtake the total used on the Auxiliary cookbook a few years back.

However, more than 30 YMCA clubs and community groups have promised to help make the March 27-28 days swing.

Just for instance, the newest idea is to organize a tremendous art show, featuring the talents of elementary school children. Jingo hopes it all works out. The committees are being organized, the work load is being assumed. All that's needed is the same enthusiasm from Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public and all the young Publics.

P.S. Mr. and Mrs. David how Caesars Palace in Las Vegas doesn't seem the proper co-chairmen, but they have a lot of help from their committee of men and women.

a sort of carnival-fair atmosphere.

So far, the planning is in its action stages but the news is out that there will be games — all sorts of them — clowns, cartoon movies for the youngsters. Jingo hears there'll be a Spook Walk maybe and a delightful place for the family to get their pictures taken in unique manner.

Food Available

Jingo hears rumblings that the inner man will be served with a spaghetti supper on Saturday and a pancake brunch Sunday morning with popcorn, doughnuts, hamburgers and other goodies on sale in between. There's to be a crafts and flower shop for discriminating buyers — plans are to rendezvous with long submerged pirate island of Port Royal, which he expects to emerge from the sea. James Warren, Lynne Roberts, Paul Caunagh.

2 — "Port Sinister" Sci-fi on expedition heads to

In its 5th week at Cinema I, the movie "Love Story" follows the national pattern of popularity. The film starring Ryan O'Neal and Ali McGraw grossed a sensational $8½ million in its first two weeks at 165 theaters across the country. Reports keep coming in that its box office records since then keep climbing to make it one of the big money-makers and tops in audience popularity.

Pearl Bailey Duets With Armstrong

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 Channel 11 — The

Pearl Bailey Show proves once again you can't bear a real professional. There are a couple of moments in this fine program that are a privilege to watch, notably Pearl and Louis Armstrong chatting. Louis singing "Blueberry Hill", the two of them in a jazz session with "Exactly Like You" and a very poignant duet, with special lyrics, of "Didn't We." It's a great segment from great artists. Other highlights: Pearl and Bing Crosby in a fine medley and a very expensive trio, Bing, Louis and Andy Williams each taking turns singing the other's themes.

4:50-5:30 Channels 11-9 — Some Vegas doesn't seem the proper U.S.S.R. to square off against each other, but that's where boxers from both nations come it's about, but it has something to do with a newspaper clipping, coming home late, kissing his secretary and having a female's telephone number in his jacket

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — Something beyond the control of the Mission: Impossible team happens for the second week in a row and again improves the story. The IMF must destroy a satellite launched by an unfriendly country and to do so, Paris has to masquerade as the American who installed a minefield which protects the satellite ground station. But — it's a big but — the night before the switch is to take place, the American kills the woman he has been seeing, only Paris doesn't know this when the switch is made.

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — The Lawrence Welk Show moves to a new time and salutes the fact with the mighty presence of Kate Smith, singing some Irving Berlin songs including the flag-waving finale, "God Bless America."

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — There's trouble in the Robbie Douglas household on My Three Sons. Robbie is the last to know what

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Mannix focuses on one of those honest tough cops whose life is threatened because of his pursuit of a case involving $85,000 stolen dollars. There are missing witnesses, a young partner and a wife who is so concerned she hires Mike Connors to watch out for her husband.

Democrats in Rules Battle

Stop House Attempt To Curb Power of Rules Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new House Democratic leader-ship is off to a shaky start after a bruising fight over rules to govern the 1971 session.

A 239-152 roll-call vote Friday knocked from the new rules a clause curbing the power of the Rules Committee to stifle legis-lation.

The proposal had the backing of Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who only Thursday ascended to the top post in the House.

In essence it would have limited to 31 days the time the Rules panel could have blocked bills approved by other committees. After that period, the speaker could have determined when to bring the side-tracked measures to the House floor for a vote.

It was a power vested in several previous speakers and had the backing of the Democratic caucus by a 140-48 vote.

Significantly, among the 90 Democrats who opposed cutting into Rules Committee power were most committee chairmen.

It was clearly a victory for the coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

But Albert won a victory on another major rules proposal as Democrats defeated a bid to give Republicans one-third of the funds allotted to committees for investigative programs.

The 1970 reorganization act provided for that fund-raising sharing, but the Democratic caucus decided it should not be put into effect and bound Democrats to vote that way on the floor.

Adoption of the rules paved the way for action next week on assignment of members to various committees that hope to start work soon on shaping legisla-tion.

These sources, still assessing the attack, say its effect on the war in Cambodia might not be as serious as the destruction would suggest.

Although most of the planes in Cambodia's tiny air force were wrecked, one source said, "the question is how effective Cam-bodia's air force was in the first place." The source noted that most of the air support in Cam-bodia is being flown by Ameri-can and South Vietnamese planes.

There were no reports of ma-culature curbing the power of the Rules Committee to stifle legis-lation.

Nixon's Liberal Plans Draw Mixed Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi- In his third State of the Union' The offer to make available $16 billion in federal funds—in-cluding $6 billion in new money, —to states and localities, a huge jump over earlier estimates, produced expressions of shock from many Democrats and some head-shaking among Re-publicans.

The President's "program to insure that no American family will be prevented from obtain-ing basic medical care by inabil-ity to pay" was better re-ceived.

Sentiment for a national health plan has been growing among the lawmakers. But some took a wait and see atti-tude, since Nixon left details for a future message. Lawmakers who commented generally liked his call for a $100 million drive to find a cancer cure. However, Democrats greeted his endorse-ment of more aid to medical schools and measures to in-crease the doctor supply with complaints that he has vetoed legislation along these lines.

And there was much skepti-cism that the ramified execu-tive agencies could be swept into eight major departments, instead of the present 12.

Foreign Policy Although Nixon said he will discuss foreign policy later, he got a notable burst of applause in the midst of a generally tepid reception when he invited the 92nd Congress to be recorded as the one that "helped us end the longest war in the nation's history."

His other major proposals in the 4,500-word address carried live over network radio and television were for welfare re-form, stalled in the last Con-gress, an expansionary budget to stimulate the economy and proposals to check pollution and noise and to expand the nation's parks.

"Let us put the money where the needs are," Nixon said as he unfolded a two-part program to help states and local govern-ments to a generous share of the tax revenues taken in by the national government.

The plan would provide $5 billion a year to the local units, on a formula based on popu-lation and their own tax efforts, to use as they saw fit.

Another $11 billion would be provided for local programs in six broad fields—urban develop-ment, rural development, edu-cation, transportation, job train-ing and law enforcement.

But of the $11 billion, only $1 billion would be new federal money, while the other $10 billion would be provided out of al-locations already being made under specific federal aid pro-grams in these areas.

House Ways and Means Com-mittee hearings have been promised for later in the year by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills. D-Ark. But Mills has adamantly opposed revenue sharing, both in principle and as an impossi-ble dream while the government faces deficits of $15 billion or more.

Beards in Milwaukee Hijacker Keeps Cool

MIAMI (AP) — Forcing his demands with a hatchet and a bomb threat, a tall young man who never lost his cool hijacked a Northwest Airlines jetliner Friday. He wanted to go to Cuba but wound up instead in Detroit.

He agreed on Havana after the captain of the three-engined Boeing 727, on a scheduled flight from Milwaukee to Washington with 39 persons aboard, told the hijacker the aircraft could not make the long hop to Algeria.

The youth boarded the North-west flight in Milwaukee and shortly after takeoff trotted the length of the passenger com-partment waving a short-handled ax and carrying a brown briefcase, which he said con-tained a bomb.

"Saw Hatchet" "I saw he had a hatchet and I went to take it from him," stew-ardess Darlene Luther of Moor-head, Minn., said Friday night after the jet returned to Miami.

Refueling Stop The plane made a refueling stop in Detroit, but the hijacker allowed no one to enplane or dis-embark. Gov. William G. Mil-liken of Michigan had been scheduled to board the flight there for Washington.

The plane flew on to Havana, where four armed soldiers climbed aboard and escorted the hijacker from the jet.

MADISON (AP) — Uncle Sam could hardly wait to get his hands on young Tom Hanson

The Monona Grove High School senior, who is photo editor of the school paper, was advised by his guidance counselor to talk with army recruiters about the possi-bility of photography training in the service.

But when Hanson arrived at a reserve center, he was promptly informed that he was late for induction and was classified I-A.

The 17-year-old has not yet registered for the draft, and, when he attempted to explain the circumstances, he said he was told by a recruiter to "shut up." He attempted a quick exit, but was escorted back into the station where he was treated to a GI-haircut.

The Army then issued Han-son a uniform and ordered him to board a bus headed for boot camp in Kentucky. He spotted an unguarded door, however, and returned home.

Hanson received a phone call several days later from the Army. It was explained that a mistake had been made: it was another Thomas Lee Hanson who was tardy in reporting.

Photographer Hanson de-clined the recruiter's offer for another appointment the fol-lowing week.

5 Bound for Ski Slopes Die in Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five Minnesota women were killed in a collision near Hayward, Wis., as they were on their way to a resort for a week-end of skiing.

These deaths Friday night put Wisconsin's 1971 traffic fatality toll today at 29, compared with 30 on this date last year.

Officers said the accident occurred when a car driven by Mrs. Roy Ambli, 30, of Roseville, Minn., swerved on slippery pavement and collided with a vehicle driven by William Douglass, about 35, of Ashland, on U.S. 63 about six miles south-west of Hayward.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Ambli, three 16-year-old Roseville girls—Jane Colbert, Vicki Perman and Nancy Ris-dahl, and Judith Hallberg, 17, of South St. Paul, Minn.

Douglas and Jessica Clark, 16, of Roseville, a passenger in the Ambli car, were reported in critical condition today at a Hayward hospital.

The accident occurred only a few hours after the area was covered by a half-inch snowfall which blanketed the road.

Environment Issue Timing 'Never Better'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Assembly Democratic majority leader Norman Anderson, Madison said Friday that the climate has never been better in the Legislature for the consideration of environmental issues.

Anderson addressed Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's Task Force 71 on natural resources and environmental protection at its formation meeting here.

"The climate that now exists has never been better for matters of environmental preservation and restoring the degradation that has been done," Anderson said.

He told the task force, which included a broad range of conservation interests among its members, that they would "now have an opportunity to do more than wring your hands. You have the opportunity to write into the laws of the state of Wisconsin."

Lucey called the task force together as one of six such groups that will be expected to make legislative recommendations by April 1. He gave the group only a general charge to concern itself with legislation which will have "a great impact on the quality of life for ourselves and future generations."

The governor advised the group to concern itself only with ideas that can be drafted into legislation for the 1971 session although he acknowledged the fact that it would undoubtedly delve into issues that would need longer studies.

Paul Olson of Madison, former member of the now defunct state conservation commission was chosen as chairman of the group.

The group agreed to divide itself into six subcommittees to consider possible legislation on topics that Lucey had stressed during his gubernatorial campaign, and one subject proposed by John Wilson of Green Bay, a representative of the Wisconsin Ecological Society.

The areas of study will include water control, resource planning environmental education, solid waste disposal, air pollution, and governmental reorganization. The government reorganization area, suggested by Wilson would involve a study of the present state government procedures for dealing with pollution and environmental quality with an eye towards improvements in the structure that could be effected through legislative action.

The whole group will meet in Madison again Feb. 12, although, at the urging of several members anxious to have an impact on the legislative natural resources program, some committees may meet earlier.

Kimberly Plant New Boiler for K-C

Installation this year of a size of the conventional coal-fired boiler but will provide 150,000 pounds of steam every hour and take the place of two pulverized coal-fired boilers with a combined capacity of 120,000 pounds of steam.

The new boiler was moved off the flat cars Friday and placed in the plant for preliminary installation work. Considerable piping and electrical connections as well as the physical erection of the 18-foot high boiler is expected to take about four months, Loppnow said. Depending on the availability of natural gas, the boiler will be in operation by this summer.

Two freight cars brought a boiler onto the mill site last week. The largest section of the boiler, weighing 100 tons, was on one flat car, and the second section of about 11 tons was on another car.

"It's a small package as boilers go," said the plant engineer, "but it will be doing a big job, not only in the amount of daily steam, but in reducing emission of particles, soot, and air from the boiler house stacks.

plants have been operating with gas-fired boilers to provide cleaner air since 1964. Appleton Atlas mill's new gas-fired boiler went into service last month. Prior to that time it had been receiving its steam from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The main office in Neenah is provided with steam from Lakeview while the new office building for the Consumer and Service Products Group on Marathon Avenue, Neenah, has gas-fired boilers.

This $1 Million gas-fired boiler will be installed at the Kimberly printing paper plant of Kimberly-Clark Corp. Although it weighs more than 100 tons and will produce twice the steam, it is only one-tenth as large as the conventional coal-fired boiler it will replace. The boiler arrived at Kimberly this week and officials hope to have it in operation by summer.

Variety of Bills Set For State Hearings

New Outagamie Court Is Proposed

MADISON (AP)—Bills dealing with professional strike breakers, fortune tellers and uncensored dogs are among those slated for airing by Wisconsin legislative committees.

Lawmakers also will hear arguments on bills calling for an increase in the number of county court branches in Eau Claire, Outagamie, Racine, Rock, Waukesha and Dane counties.

The proposal to ban the use of strike breakers, authored by Rep. William Johnson, D-Milwaukee, will be heard Tuesday by the Assembly Labor Committee.

The measure would bar employers from hiring professional strikebreakers, and prohibit the transporting of persons to Wisconsin for strikebreaking.

Also on Tuesday, the Assembly Judiciary Committee will hear a bill by Rep. Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, to repeal the law which deems fortune tellers to be vagrants.

Eliminate Fine
The Assembly State Affairs Committee is to air a measure Tuesday that would eliminate the minimum $50 fine for persons who have uncensored dogs. The maximum fine would remain at $500.

The Joint Finance Committee will hold a hearing Wednesday on the proposals to provide additional county courts in six out-of-county court in Dane, Eau Claire, Outagamie, Racine, Rock and Waukesha counties. Racine and Rock now have five branches. Waukesha and Outagamie four, Eau Claire two, and Dane seven.

State Drafting New Snowmobile Law

MADISON (AP) — Information to be used by the Senate Natural Resources Committee in drafting new legislation controlling snowmobile operations in Wisconsin is being compiled now, the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune has learned.

The regulations include muffler requirements, brake and light requirements, age limitations for operations and distances the machines may be operated from roads.

The information came from Don Beghin, supervisor of boating, Division of Fish, Game and Enforcement, Bureau of Law Enforcement, Department of Natural Resources.

As presently envisioned the new laws also would set maximum fines for violations, establish a safety and training program that could be operated by the DNR on a voluntary basis through the state's school system, and would establish a system of mandatory accident reporting.

Although still in the "talking stage," the Tribune has learned that the legislation being considered would prohibit anyone under the age of 12 from operating a snowmobile and would require youngsters of from 12 to 15 to be accompanied on the machines by their parents or guardians.

The only existing age limitations require that an operator must be 12 years old before he can legally cross a county road and 16 before he can cross a vehicle out of the driveway and onto a public highway.

Muffler requirements that presently are being considered would set an upper noise limit of 83 decibels on the A scale as registered from a distance of 50 feet, Beghin said. This requirement would go into effect by July 1, 1972, and would be followed by more stringent regulations as technology and the ability of manufacturers to incorporate new designs into their knit pajamas and sweaters.

Present snowmobiles create a noise level of about 85 decibels—comparable to that of large trucks—while autos have a level of about 75 decibels.

A legislative proposal being drafted by the state Department of Transportation also would establish 10 feet as the distance a snowmobile may be operated from the traveled portions of roads and highways, and would rewrite present brake and light requirements.

The safety and training program probably would be operated in a manner similar to present high school driver education courses, and might allow a student who successfully completes the course and is awarded a certificate of safety to operate a snowmobile without parental supervision at the age of 14.

Rumors that new controlling legislation has been under study have been rife for weeks in the wake of growing complaints by property owners and others of law violations by snowmobile operators. Complaints have ranged from vandalism, trespass, fence cutting and using public roadways as trails.

Legislation limiting the hours snowmobiles may operate also is expected, as well as laws governing their operation in residential areas.

Sew-With-Knits Class Being Offered at KVS

KAUKAUNA — Registrations are being accepted at the Vocational School for a new course, "Sew With Knits," to begin at 7 p.m. Feb. 3 at the Kaukauna school.

Sponsored by Fox Valley Technical Institute, the course will consist of four two-and-one-half hour sessions with Mrs. Althea Mittelstaedt as instructor. It will include demonstrations on fabrics, patterns, making a crew neck shirt, neck finishes, raglan sleeve shirts, corporate new designs into their knit pajamas and sweaters.

Manawa Tot Injured When Struck by Car

MANAWA — A 1½-year-old boy was "satisfactory at this time" this morning in the intensive care unit of Appleton Memorial Hospital where he was taken Friday night after apparently being run over or bumped by an automobile in a private driveway here.

Police Chief Kenneth Stevens identified the boy as Jeffrey Moericke, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moericke, route 2.

Stevens said the boy and his parents were visiting at the home of Earl Vaughn, route 2, when they decided to go home about 9 p.m. The boy, unnoticed, had slipped out of the house and evidently wandered to the driveway. Vaughn, according to Stevens, backed his vehicle out of the driveway and either ran over the boy's stomach or bumped against him accidentally.

Stevens first took the child to New London Community Hospital but then transferred him to Appleton. The boy's physician said this morning that the boy July 1, 1972, and would be followed by more stringent regulations as technology and the ability of manufacturers to incorporate new designs into their knit pajamas and sweaters.

Police Investigate Two Burglaries

Overnight burglaries at a north side service station and a downtown shop are under investigation today by Appleton detectives.

Up to $200 in cash and change is missing from Brown's Shell Service, 100 E. Wisconsin Ave., where intruders entered an office after kicking or pushing open two doors.

Two stereo receivers, a cassette tape deck and pair of stereo headphones are gone from the Appleton Hi-Fi Center, 323 W. College Ave., according to the owner. Authorities said that entry was made through a Neenah Paper and Lakeview rear window.

Crash Claims Life Of Chilton Woman

CHILTON — Calumet County's first traffic fatality of the year with the death of Mrs. Fred W. Maas, 74, of 163 School St., after a two-car collision a half-mile south of the city.

Fred W. Maas, 76, driver of one of the autos, was dead on arrival at Calumet Memorial Hospital after the 5:40 p.m. accident which occurred on State 57.

According to Leroy Hughes, Calumet County Coroner, his death has not been declared a traffic fatality, pending the results of an autopsy to be performed this morning.

Mrs. Maas died at the hospital at 8:25 p.m. from multiple injuries.

The driver of the other auto was Donald Schwobe, 40, route 2, New Holstein. Schwobe, the Calumet County clerk, was taken to the hospital with multiple contusions of the chest and legs, a fractured left arm and a possible concussion.

The accident is still under investigation by the traffic department. The Maas auto was northbound on 57 and the Schwobe auto was southbound when the collision occurred.

A Head-on Collision south of Chilton on State 57 late Friday afternoon took the life of Mrs. Fred Maas, 74, Chilton. Her husband, driver of the car above, was dead on arrival at Calumet Memorial Hospital. A ruling on the cause of his death was expected from an autopsy today. (Connors Photo)

Newly Constituted Priests' Senate Gets Down to Business

GREEN BAY — The Rev. president, they will constitute Robert Morneau, De Pere, and the executive committee. In other organizational business, senators chose the Rev. Paul Koszarek, Green Bay, and the Rev. Eugene Hotchkiss, Menasha, to represent the senate on the Diocesan Pastoral Council. They confirmed executive committee action naming the Rev. Eugene Hotchkiss, Menasha, to review the review of seminary tuition grants.

This was the first meeting to be chaired by newly elected president, the Rev. Gordon Gilsdorf, Oneida, and the first meeting for the 10 newly elected members of the 20-man body. Elections were in December.

Morneau, who is episcopal vicar for religious, was chosen treasurer and Hoffman, Green Bay, was chosen director of housing for the diocese. Secretary, along with Gilsdorf and the Rev. Robert Gulig, Little Chute, senate vice president.

WCC Urges Ecumenical State Agency

Parley Delegates Feel Togetherness May Sooth Conflicts

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Council of Churches has recommended a state ecumenical conference for all denominations, hoping to sooth what its director calls such conflicts as the school bus dispute.

The gathering, proposed for 1972, could help Protestant, Roman Catholic, Jewish and other faiths "participate in relating to issues which we have in common," the Rev. Willis Merriman, council executive director, said.

Delegates to the council's annual convention, representing 11 Protestant denominations, endorsed the ecumenical proposal Tuesday.

When Milwaukee Episcopal Bishop Donald Hallock was asked which faiths would be invited, he replied: "All religious bodies in Wisconsin."

Merriman said he has been "appalled by the lack of cooperation between the Catholics and Protestants on the state level."

"There are reasons for such lack of cooperation," he said. "The scars from the battle over the school bus issue run deep."

Private schools recently won state legislative approval of laws that require public school districts to guarantee bus transportation for parochial school youngsters.

Acts of harmony between Catholics and Protestants "far outweigh our differences," Merriman said.

The Rev. Frank Efrid of Madison was re-elected president.

Lundstrom Gospel Team Will Perform

The Lundstrom Gospel Singers of Sisseton, S.D., will present a sacred concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Grace Lutheran Church.

The singing team is sponsored by the First Assembly of God Church.

The Rev. Lowell Lundstrom and his team conduct crusades in churches of various denominations as well as United Crusades, Youth For Christ Rallies and Youth Conventions.

He is the composer of more than 150 Gospel songs and hymns and together with the team have recorded six long play record albums.

Besides their traveling, the team has a radio broadcast, "Message for America" which is heard on 45 radio stations reaching more than 35 states as well as Canada and Mexico.

Members of the team are the Lundstrom brothers, Lowell and Larry and their wives, Connie and Gloria, respectively.

New Officers Will Be Installed at Memorial Church

Four new elders have been elected by the congregation of Memorial Presbyterian Church for three-year sessions and will be installed at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday.

They are W. R. Sheldon, Mrs. Donald Grangaard, Mrs. Elbert Norton and Philip Costello. Other elders will assist with the service.

The congregation at its annual meeting also named Dr. Dale Williams to serve as financial secretary. Harold Cockram is the church treasurer.

Elected to represent the church on the nominating committee for this year were Mrs. John Parker, Richard Platt, Jack Rudolph and Mrs. Carl Schroeder.

Two Workshops for Area Church Organists Scheduled

Two workshops for church organists are being planned for this area to determine the needs of all churches.

The sessions will be led by Mrs. Mary Kay Easty of Appleton.

The first workshop will be at 3:30 p.m. Jan. 31 in the First Baptist Church, Green Bay, and will be directed to problems of effective hymn-playing.

Appleton will be the setting of the second workshop, Feb. 28. All organists are asked to bring hymnals. There will be a short talk, demonstrations, discussions and an opportunity for participants to play.

Sponsoring organization is the Wisconsin Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, which numbers more than 17,000 church organists nationally.

Mrs. Miriam Clapp Duncan, of Lawrence Conservatory, is the dean in this area.

Mrs. Easty, who holds a master of music degree in organ from the University of Wisconsin, is widely experienced.

St. Norbert Chaplain

DE PERE — The Rev. Mel D. Wigman, a former teacher at Premontre High School, Green Bay, has been named associate chaplain at St. Norbert College, effective immediately.

St. John, Little Chute, Plans Renewal, Education Program

LITTLE CHUTE — A parish renewal and religious education program will be conducted by the Paulist Fathers of Minneapolis Sunday through Feb. 14 at St. John Catholic Church here.

The two priests are the Rev. Wilfred Brimley and the Rev. Bernard Campbell.

The program is designed to help Catholics understand better what is taking place in Catholicism today.

A special feature of the renewal will be home discussion groups and home masses. The Paulist fathers will meet with groups of 15-25 parishioners in private homes to discuss family life, Catholic education, confession, Christian unity and other current topics.

Church services will be at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday during the three weeks. After the renewal will be home discussion groups and home masses.

Faith Elects New Officers

Changes Made on Rights of Women, Age for Voting

Arnold Grummer has been elected chairman of Faith Lutheran Church to replace Max Hensel, (who was ineligible for re-election) at the congregation's annual voters' assembly this week.

Serving with Grummer will be William Seile, vice chairman; Harold Vonder Here, secretary; and Clarence Steinwedel, treasurer.

Other new officers include Donald Schoenfeld and Clifford Forster, elders; Ronald Olson, trustee; Fred Matczynski, Elroy Heiling, Roland Borchardt and Howard Pleuss, board of Christian education.

Walter Dobratz, Jerome Boettcher and Floyd Peterson were re-elected as financial secretary, to the board of finance and Sunday school treasurer, respectively.

In other action, the congregation approved a constitutional change, lowering the eligibility age for voting members to 18, and giving women the right to vote and hold any office except that of elder or pastor.

Clergy Meeting

"Problem Pregnancies" will be the topic of the monthly meeting of the Appleton Area Clergy Association, Tuesday at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

The business session will begin at 9:30 a.m., and the program at 10 a.m.

A representation of alternatives available dealing specifically with the issue of abortion, will be discussed.

The State of the State

Gov. Patrick Lucey's State of the State message to the new legislature was a somewhat cautious listing of priorities, no doubt reflecting the revenue gap and need for new taxation which faces the new administration in totals which may not have been anticipated on the campaign trail last autumn.

The governor's proposals can be expected to take more specific form when they are tied together with fiscal consequences in the presentation of his budget to the legislature. There were broad hints in the Thursday message, for example, that Lucey will recommend a reorganization of higher education, perhaps including an integration of the University of Wisconsin and the state universities system.

For the present, the governor has given the legislature a list of worthwhile topics to zero in on — and objectives which can be gained through bipartisanship in a legislature with divided party control.

As a step toward more equity in property taxes, Lucey asked for legislation to require all assessments at full value administered by the state, to replace the hodge-podge of local assessment percentages. To gain this goal, he said the legislature could also remove the two-thirds county board requirement for counties to set up professional countywide assessments or it could direct counties to start such systems. Lucey also renewed what should be a bipartisan call for redistribution of state shared taxes based on need and for more attention to urban problems, specifically increased state grants in the field of law enforcement.

The legislature also should respond promptly to Lucey's request for state action to match the federal lowering of the voting age to 18, which will require a state referendum. As things now stand, using Lucey's words, it is an embarrassing contradiction for the young to be told they are qualified to help choose a president but not state and local officials.

Lucey has provided the legislature with an important agenda, if one limited by fiscal circumstances. The legislature should get to work on it. Larger and more difficult tasks are ahead after the governor submits the budget.

The County Health Study

The studies initiated by the Outagamie County Board's health committee to assess public health services currently offered in the rural and urban areas of the county and what types of services people need and want for the future are a step in the right direction. Division of the studies into rural and urban sections is also a practical approach to the problem.

The advisability of a county health department offering public health services on a county-wide basis has often been advanced in the past. But differences of opinion on the subject between rural and urban supervisors have generally resulted in tabling of the subject.

We are hopeful that the current studies will reveal that the interests of citizens of the county in public health services are more or less common, regardless of place of residence. Yet it is obvious that the level of services now being offered differs considerably from one jurisdiction to another.

And without prejudicing the study further with our opinions we wish the health committee well in its deliberations.

The Mourning Doves' Friends

The persistence of the enmity between the game hunters and the bird lovers in Wisconsin as exemplified by the perennial dispute about the legally protected status of the mourning dove is reminiscent of the celebrated feud of the Montagues and the Capulets.

Or, perhaps, the enmity that encompassed many generations of the lives of the Hatfield and McCoy families is more appropriate to the American idiom.

The latest and hopefully final episode in the obdurate struggle of the hundreds of thousands of bird lovers in our state and the numerous and sometimes more persistent devotees of the hunt has brought another decision by the state Board of Natural Resources that the gentle bird of the melancholy coo is a song bird, and as such is entitled to protection from the hunters' guns and shells.

An effort to effect a compromise agreement by these determined hostiles has reached another deadlock. The policy-making officers in Madison have declared as a result that the rules won't be changed. The dove will be assured of continued and absolute protection here, whatever the policy makers in other and perhaps less-feeling natural resource regulation departments in the country may decide.

Human Being of the Year

Somewhat with all the crises in the world today it's a little hard to get into a dither over a major concern of the Association for Children With Retarded Development.

In no way do we want to downgrade the organization which provides specialized services for the mentally retarded and whose workers are extremely dedicated.

But each year they have picked a leading humanitarian and named him Man of the Year. Only this year it's a woman.

Mrs. Stephen Goodyear has been a major benefactor of the organization. But the appalling question is whether she is to be named Man of the Year or Woman of the Year. There is to be a nationwide poll as to the decision. It is likely to affect, not only this particular organization's designation, but those of women in other branches of service — should a woman be a Congresswoman or a Congressman, an Assemblyman or an Assemblywoman, a Chairman or a Chairlady?

Up to a point we are in favor of much that the Women's Lib movement has been promoting. Actually the very fact that the head of a group is called a "chairman," usually regardless of sex, is an indication of the dominance of the male of the species. But some of this stuff is getting pretty ridiculous.

Is being named Woman of the Year less important than Man of the Year? Why not merely call such recipients Human Being of the Year and let it go at that?

Looking Backward

Snow Needed for Logging

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 21, 1871.

The lumbering camps in the woods from this city are reported to be doing their best to get out logs.

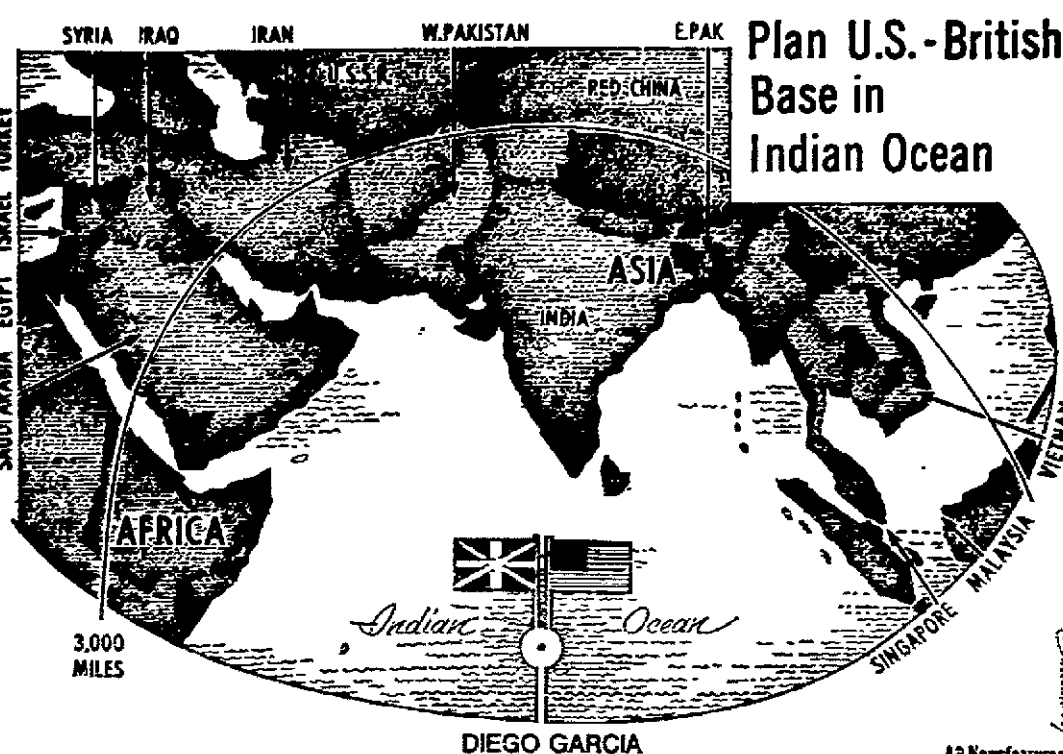

However, with almost bare ground the prospect is rather discouraging. In fact, we have been informed that many teams have returned to town unable to accomplish anything worth while. In camps where there are short hauls, work will doubtless continue, although even there it is forced work. If we don't get snow soon, the effect upon lumbering north of us must prove quite serious.

U.S., British Base Built On Island in Indian Ocean

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A lonely atoll in the Indian Ocean has been earmarked an air and radio communications base for the United States and Britain.

U.S. officials in Washington said Diego Garcia, an island measuring 13 miles long and 5 miles at its widest, would serve American and British ships and aircraft in the Indian Ocean.

The installation is expected to cost about $19 million to build and will be manned by about 250 Navy personnel.

Work on the base is slated to begin this March and will take about three years to complete.

Officials said they expected the facility to be equipped to monitor radio exchanges between ships plying the waters of the Indian Ocean.

The base is also expected to be used as a refueling stop for British vessels assigned to the Malaysia-Singapore defense network.

Diego Garcia, a British territory of the Chagos archipelago, served as a British air base in World War II. It lies about 1,200 miles below the tip of India.

Officials said that about 600 inhabitants on the island and some agricultural workers employed there will be relocated.

The proposed base has been under study for about four years and is an outgrowth of the desire of Washington to maintain a U.S. presence in the area.

People's Forum Blood Bank Saved This Man's Life

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
Several months ago I was rushed to the hospital in an emergency situation. Within a few hours after arriving there, I had received eleven units of blood, which, needless to say, was a very determining factor in my being alive and well today.

All this was made possible because of our participation in the Community Blood Bank. I wonder how many people are aware of the fact that by giving blood once a year, blood will be available for you and your family when it is needed. I would urge everyone to call the Community Blood Center and get details about this excellent service.

I would like to share our experience with the people of Appleton to show another side of our mayor.

We had a wedding in our family and went downtown to a place for food and drink. Our car, decorated for the wedding, was parked in front of a meter. We forgot to go out and put another dime in it when the hour was up. End result, parking ticket. At the top was a notation, "Excused by Mayor."

Many thanks.

Wisconsin Report

Luck and Timing Are Important Factors in Any Political Career

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON When Atty. Gen. Robert Warren talked with a reporter the other day about his probable future, he matter-of-factly remarked about the relation of a political career to factors of "luck and timing." The casual comment told more about the realism of the man now regarded as the most promising future leader of the Republican party of Wisconsin than his listener probably knew.

The history of Wisconsin politics abounds in happenstances in the making and breaking of political careers. Repeatedly in the last few decades men have risen to high places not especially because of superior qualities of ability or skill, but primarily because they were favored with timing and luck.

Perhaps the best and most important example came in 1942. If Orland S. Loomis, who won election to the governorship as a Progressive, had not died before inauguration, he would have led his Progressives into a return to the Republican party in the succeeding election.

Speculation Possible
It is permissible to speculate that in such an event, the Progressive movement might have survived, the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette would have been renominated and re-elected in 1946, and the meteoric career of Joe McCarthy would not have begun to give a name to his time in the history of the country.

Conversely, if the party of the La Follettes had not died when it did, opportunities for a whole new crop of young politicians who took over the weak and hopeless Democratic party skeleton in the late 1940s would not have opened with such brilliant results for such men as Gaylor Nelson, John Reynolds, Thomas E. Fairchild, and a score of others, including Patrick J. Lucey.

People's Forum Congratulates County on Abolishing Fox Bounty

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
I would like to congratulate the 31 members of the Outagamie County Board who voted to abolish bounty payments for foxes in your county.

At the same time I must cite your newspaper for non-objective reporting. When the major and positive action taken by 31 board members was to abolish the bounty, only the arguments of the minority were recorded. Why did your article omit the reasons of the majority in voting for the measure? Surely they were not silent? Or did they have no reason in mind as they voted for the measure? Please, if you report the news, give your readers both sides.

As for DeBruin's charge that foxes are decimating the rabbit and pheasant

Or what if Nelson had won the Republican nomination for a State Assembly seat in Polk County in 1946 and had gone to the legislature for that remote district? Chances are that he would now be practicing law in that county seat. Surely the probability that he would become governor and U. S. senator would have been remote. Or if he had gathered a few score fewer votes in 1946, when he managed to defeat former Sen. Fred Risser Sr. in Madison, and won a place in Madison politics, the most effective vaulting place on the Wisconsin political map?

Proxmire Took Gamble
William Proxmire came to Madison a little more than two decades ago. He came at the advice of one of his college professors who had a Wisconsin background and perceived the political opportunities here in the wake of the destruction of the La Follette machine. Suppose he had not met such a teacher?

Or suppose that a little later in his stubborn pursuit of a place in politics the Republicans had confronted him with a unified organization when he was the Democratic nominee for U. S. senator in a special election in 1957? A defeat would have finished him, almost surely, after four statewide campaigns in a decade. Luck and timing.

In 1968 Pat Lucey was one of those who prevailed upon young Bronson La Follette to risk his place as attorney general to take the Democratic nomination for governor. He lost, and gave up a career.

But suppose that La Follette had insisted that Lucey run, which would have been plausible enough since Lucey had been the nominee in 1966, and ran creditably? It is fairly evident that Lucey would have lost also, and fatally.

Would Have Won
But it is reasonable to presume that La Follette would have held the attorney generalship. Then Warren would not have gained it, and with it the opportunity to reflect philosophically from his present position as the de facto leader of the surviving state government Republicans.

Luck and timing. Any politician can provide a dozen examples of their fateful relation to the rise and fall of the men on the political roulette wheel.

People's Forum Police Department Praised For Anti-Burglary Service

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
Shortly before the Christmas Holidays, when our family was making final arrangements for a vacation trip, I telephoned the Appleton Police Department to advise them that our home would be vacant for a two week period of time. The sergeant on duty asked for various information such as: would any lights be left on? Would the draperies be left open or closed? Who would have a key to our house? Who could be contacted if a problem arose? I must admit that at the time I wondered if all this information was necessary.

Upon our return from our vacation the party who was holding the key to our house informed us that they had been contacted by the Police Department one morning. It seemed that when an officer was checking our house doors at 2:00 a.m. he found the back door unlocked. Further investigation showed no forced entry but that apparently the door had not latched properly after a delivery was taken into the house.

We would like to express our thanks to the Appleton Police Department and we would like other Appleton taxpayers to know that the Police Department is on the job and serving the citizens of Appleton.

population, any game biologist will tell you that the major item in the fox's diet is field mice. Any rabbit killed by a fox is usually either sick or injured and would be thrown away by human hunters.

I am a hunter also, but believe that you should only kill what you intend to eat, not just for "sport" or profit. As I am a resident of Winnebago County, you may ask why I should be concerned with the affairs of another county. Where environment is concerned, there are no county lines. This is another fact we must recognize if we are to save what is left of our natural resources.

Napkin Ring Game
Requires Careful Aim

BY CAPPY DICK

Once the equipment has been made for today's game, it can be used over and over

Wind each one with a different color of yarn (figures 1 and 2). Use a needle and thread to tack the ends of the yarn to the cardboard ring.

Next, prepare a target marked with point values as in figure 3. This is a piece of cardboard 12 by 16 inches in size. Rule it off as shown and print the point values in the spaces.

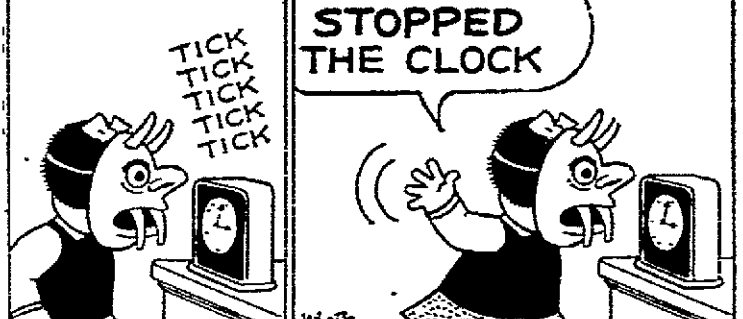

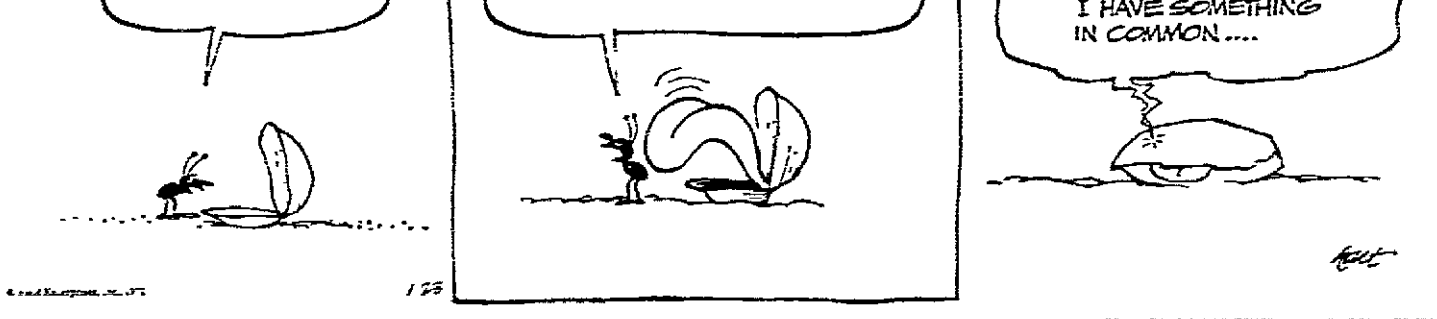

Place the target at the center of the table. The players then take turns tossing the five napkin rings, one at a time, to land on the target spaces. If a ring lands squarely on a space, it wins the point value of that space. If it overlaps two or more spaces, it wins the lowest point value represented by those spaces. If it misses the target entirely it earns nothing for the player.

After each player has had three turns at tossing the five rings the one who has earned the highest total score wins the game.

Proposal May Be Heard

The Official Map May be Amended to Provide for: The placing of Linwood Avenue from Wisconsin Avenue to Brewster Street described as follows, to wit:

A parcel or strip of land in the west one-half, of the southwest one-quarter, of Section 22, T21N, R17E, City of Appleton, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, lying 30.00 feet to each side of a line that is 452.00 feet west of the west line of North Douglas Street, and lying between the north line of West Wisconsin Avenue and the south line of West Brewster Street; less that part described in Volume 425 of Deeds, Page 505, Outagamie County Registry.

The map illustrates a proposed street layout in Appleton, Wisconsin. A central shaded area, 452.00 feet wide, is bounded by the north line of West Wisconsin Avenue to the north and the south line of West Brewster Street to the south. This area is divided into three parcels: a large parcel owned by Klitzke (labeled 'KLITZKE PROP.'), a smaller parcel owned by Zeil (labeled 'ZEIL PROP.'), and a parcel owned by Kamps (labeled 'KAMPS'). The proposed Linwood Avenue runs east from Wisconsin Avenue, passing through the Klitzke and Zeil parcels. The map shows existing streets including Douglas Avenue, Brewster Street, and Linwood Avenue. A north arrow and a scale bar (0 to 200 feet) are provided for orientation and measurement. Environment Issue Timing 'Never Better'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Assembly Democratic majority leader Norman Anderson, Madison said Friday that the climate has never been better in the Legislature for the consideration of environmental issues.

Anderson addressed Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's Task Force 71 on natural resources and environmental protection at its formation meeting here.

"The climate that now exists has never been better for matters of environmental preservation and restoring the degradation that has been done," Anderson said.

He told the task force, which included a broad range of conservation interests among its members, that they would "now have an opportunity to do more than wring your hands. You have the opportunity to write into the laws of the state of Wisconsin."

Lucey called the task force together as one of six such groups that will be expected to make legislative recommendations by April 1. He gave the group only a general charge to concern itself with legislation which will have "a great impact on the quality of life for yourselves and future generations."

The governor advised the group to concern itself only with ideas that can be drafted into legislation for the 1971 session, although he acknowledged the fact that it would undoubtedly delve into issues that would need longer studies.

Paul Olson of Madison, former member of the now defunct state conservation commission was chosen as chairman of the group.

The group agreed to divide itself into six subcommittees to consider possible legislation on topics that Lucey had stressed during his gubernatorial campaign, and one subject proposed by John Wilson of Green Bay, a representative of the Wisconsin Ecological Society.

The areas of study will include water control, resource planning, environmental education, solid waste disposal, air pollution, and governmental reorganization. The government reorganization area, suggested by Wilson would involve a study of the present state government procedures for dealing with pollution and environmental quality with an eye towards improvements in the structure that could be effected through legislative action.

The whole group will meet in Madison again Feb. 12, although, at the urging of several members anxious to have an impact on the legislative natural resources program, some committees may meet earlier.

The new boiler was moved off the flat cars Friday and placed in the plant for preliminary installation work. Considerable piping and electrical connections as well as the physical erection of the 18-foot high boiler is expected to take about four months, Loppnow said. Depending on the availability of natural gas, the boiler will be in operation by this summer.

Two freight cars brought the boiler onto the mill site last week. The largest section of the boiler, weighing 100 tons, was on one flat car, and the second section of about 11 tons was on another car.

Variety of Bills Set For State Hearings

New Outagamie Court Is Proposed

MADISON (AP)—Bills dealing with professional strike breakers, fortune tellers and unlicensed dogs are among those slated for airing by Wisconsin legislative committees.

Lawmakers also will hear arguments on bills calling for an increase in the number of county court branches in Eau Claire, Outagamie, Racine, Rock, Waukesha and Dane counties.

The proposal to ban the use of strike breakers, authored by Rep. William Johnson, D-Milwaukee, will be heard Tuesday by the Assembly Labor Committee.

The measure would bar employers from hiring professional strikebreakers, and prohibit the transporting of persons to Wisconsin for strikebreaking.

Also on Tuesday, the Assembly Judiciary Committee will hear a bill by Rep. Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, to repeal the law which deems fortune tellers to be vagrants.

Eliminate Fine
The Assembly State Affairs Committee is to air a measure Tuesday that would eliminate the minimum $50 fine for persons who have unlicensed dogs. The maximum fine would remain at $500.

The Joint Finance Committee will hold a hearing Wednesday on the proposals to provide additional county courts in six counties.

The schedule of hearings for the next week includes:

State Drafting New Snowmobile Law

MADISON (AP) — Information to be used by the Senate

Natural Resources Committee

in drafting new legislation controlling snowmobile operations in Wisconsin is being compiled on draft form now, the Wisconsin Rapids Daily Tribune has learned.

The regulations include muffler requirements, brake and light requirements, age limitations for operations and distances the machines may be operated from roads.

The information came from

Don Beghin, supervisor of boating, Division of Fish, Game and Enforcement, Bureau of Law

Enforcement, Department of Natural Resources.

As presently envisioned the new laws also would set new maximum fines for violations establish a safety and training program that could be operated by the DNR on a voluntary basis through the state's school system and would establish a system of mandatory accident reporting.

Although still in the talking stage, the Tribune has learned that the legislation being contemplated would prohibit anyone under the age of 12 from operating a snowmobile and would require youngsters of from 12 to 16 to be accompanied on the machines by their parents or guardians.

The only existing age limitations require that an operator must be 12 years old before he can legally cross a county road

16 before he can cross a state or federal highway.

Muffler requirements that presently are being considered would set an upper noise limit of 83 decibels on the A scale registered from a distance of 50 feet, Beghin said. This requirement would go into effect by

July, 1972, and would be followed by more stringent regulations as technology and the abundance of manufacturers to incorporate new designs into their knit pajamas and sweaters.

Present snowmobiles create a noise level of about 86 decibels —comparable to that of large trucks—while autos have a level of about 75 decibels.

A legislative proposal being drafted by the state Department of Transportation also would establish 10 feet as the distance a snowmobile may be operated from the traveled portions of roads and highways, and would rewrite present brake and light requirements.

The safety and training program probably would be operating in a manner similar to present high school driver education courses and might allow a student who successfully completes the course and is awarded a certificate of safety to operate a snowmobile without parental super vision at the age of 14.

Rumors that new controlling legislation has been under study have been rife for weeks in the wake of growing complaints by property owners and others of law violations by snowmobile operators. Complaints have ranged from vandalism, trespassing fence cutting and using public roadways as trails.

Legislation limiting the hours snowmobiles may operate also is expected as well as laws governing their operation in residential areas.

KAUKAUNA — Appleton East had little trouble in downing the Galloping Ghosts here Friday night, breezing to an 86-57 win in a Fox Valley Association contest.

The win gives East a 4-4 league record while Kaukauna is 2-6. Kaukauna never led in the game, having difficulty penetrating the sagging Patriot defense. The Ghosts were also unable to connect with any degree of regularity over their much taller opponents.

The height advantage proved even more of a problem on the boards as the winners were able to limit their opponents to a single shot on many occasions while benefitting from continued shots under their own basket.

Haas Dominates

Pete Haas, who led both teams in scoring with 25 points, was particularly devastating, not only capturing a lion's share of the rebounds but often battling attempted Kaukauna shots back into the face of the shooter.

Haas opened the scoring for the winners with a free throw after which Mike Milhaupt hit a jumper to boost Appleton into a 3-point lead. A long swisher by Al Borchardt cut the margin to one, but Haas retaliated and from that point of Kaukauna was never really in the ball game.

Appleton led, 19-14, at the end of the first period, hitting seven of 12 from the floor while Kaukauna managed six of 15. Borchardt kept the Ghosts within range with four long outside shots.

East outscored Kaukauna in the opening minutes of the second quarter with Haas leading the parade with four baskets and a free throw. By halftime Appleton held a 39-25 lead, and fans began to realize the Patriots were not to be denied. The winners connected on seven of 12 from the floor to five of 16 for Kaukauna as the losers were forced to gun away from long range and could not find the basket.

Leon Franzke, the Ghost's scoring leader, did not register a basket until the final two minutes of the first half and was limited to four buckets all

Cyclones Lose, 108-91, to Suomi Quint

BESSEMER, Mich. — The Suomi College Lions, rated 17th in the small college national standings, defeated the UWGB Fox Valley Campus Cyclones, 108-91, Friday night in a non-conference basketball tilt.

The Cyclones led 9-5, early in the first half and again midway in the first half, 32-31. The Lions pushed out ahead to take a 53-48 lead at half time.

The Lions came out hot in the second half and outdistanced the Cyclones 55-43 to add to the winning spread.

The Lions grabbed 51 rebounds to the Cyclones' 39. Suomi held a slight edge, sinking 52 per cent of their shots from the field while Fox Valley put in 49 per cent.

Suomi's Chuck Finkbeiner, the games leading scorer, poured in 26 points. Brian Greenland hit 22. Larry Dunlap sank 15. Tim Stacey dumped in 14, and Larry Dunklee added 11 for the Lions.

Fox Valley's leading scorer was Steve Krueger, who netted 24 points. He was helped by Robin Rustau, who pitched in 17. Ron Haack, who connected for 15. Steve Sanders, who sank 11, and Tony Cox added 10.

Holquist's 2nd-Half Burst Spills St. Mary

MENASHA — Bob Holquist, the Northerners ahead, 11-9, at the end of the first period and 23-20 at the midway mark.

Farley was the Zephyrs' chief tormentor in the initial half with two baskets and seven straight free throws.

St. Mary's Tom Schultz made the first basket of the third period to shave the difference to a point, but Holquist followed control the Chicago White Sox, died Friday in a hospital after a long illness.

He came to life for 13 points in the third period and added eight more in the four to finish with 24, five under his average.

The Zephyrs, idle since Jan. 9, only trailed by six points (32-32) at the close of three quarters, but the visitors' Mike Farley pumped in the first two goals of the final segment to create a 10-point spread.

Range Within 7

St. Mary flurried to narrow the margin to 44-37 with 5:44 left to play, and a minute later it was still only trailing by eight.

The Cavaliers boosted their margin to 12, and the Zephyrs trimmed it to eight with 1:35 left, but baskets by Holquist and Greg Benesh helped preserve the comfortable advantage.

Neenah Press Too Tough

Rockets Make Jays 13th Victim in Row

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Neenay's Shattuck High School, again blending strong rebounding, a tough defense and accurate free throw shooting, came up with another patented productive second half to stop Menasha, 79-56, Friday night.

For the Rockets, ranked no. 1 in the state the last three weeks, it was their 13th successive verdict, including their eighth in the Fox Valley Association. The Bluejays show a 2-6 league mark.

Menasha, which gave the leaders a tough physical battle, obviously "came to play" but had trouble with the Rockets' press and was out-rebounded by an unofficial 54-33.

The Bluejays were victims of many of their mistakes. They were guilty of 29 turnovers and a number of them led to Neenah baskets after they had difficulty bringing the ball up court against the pesky press. The Rockets, too, missed a batch of other easy attempts that could have padded their lead further in the initial half.

16-6 Edge

To the Jays' credit was the fact that they kept plugging away, and the Rockets' 16-6 edge in the last four minutes of the game produced the final spread of 23 points. Menasha's 56 points were the third highest garnered against the sturdy Shattuck defense in 13 games.

The Rockets, for one of the rare times this season, ran into foul trouble. Jim Crist fouled out late in the third period and Bill Schultz and Rick Matson each had picked up four fouls before the close of that frame.

After seeing bench duty, both of the high scorers returned to play a hand in the late charge.

The Rockets scored in spurts, and they used a string of six quick points late in the second period for a telling boost.

Rockets Spurt

The score was 32-25 with 1:30 left in the first half when Matson hit a jump shot, added another quickie after the Jays turned the ball over and John Pierce tallied off the fast break following a missed Menasha attempt. It brought the score to 38-25. Christ Speidel's two gift-ers made it 38-27 at the half.

The Rockets, during the first five minutes of the third stanza, only added a point to their advantage but again hit a string of six to go up by 18. Menasha's 5-1 edge in the last 1:30 left the score at 57-43 going into the last segment.

After Bluejay sophomore Paul Wisniewski booked in the first basket of the last period, the Rockets added another skein of six. Menasha's Bill Van Lieshout hit five in a row for a 63-50 tally with exactly four minutes left, but Neenah came on to ring up 14 of the next 160 to shoot far ahead.

Cornell '5' Win Vike Home Debut

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Scoring almost at will in the second half against Lawrence University's porous man-to-man defense, Cornell College's defense of champions Rams crushed the Vikes, 87-49, here Friday night in a Midwest Conference basketball game.

Held reasonably in check enroute to an 11-point (34-23) first-half lead, the talented invaders more than doubled the Vikings' second-half output (53 to 25). It was the sixth straight victory, over-all for the Rams, who now stand 4-0 in the MC.

Lawrence, making a belated home debut, lost its fifth straight league game and is 2-6, over-all.

Jim Dyer, shooting well from the outside, and 6-7 John Lannen, paced the Vike attack, with 14 points apiece.

LU led only twice — at 2-0 and 4-2. Ashmore threw in a hook shot with the game 3 minutes, 32 seconds old to break a 4-4 tie, and Cornell was never headed.

The Rams moved out to a 23-13 advantage, with 6:42 left in the half, but the Vikes chopped the deficit to four (23-19) on successive buckets by Bruce Colwell, Linnen and Dyer. Nussbaum, however, took charge with seven quick points and the margin was 11. The half ended with Cornell on top, 34-23.

The second half was a nightmare for LU from the opening tip, Cornell funneled in six points (including two baskets on steals) before the Vikes even launched a shot — and it was 40-23.

Game Tied at Half

Jets Spurt in Second Half to Down Xavier

MANTOWOC — Roncalli record to 6-4. For Xavier, now 3-High School's Jets broke a 29-17 in the league, it was the deadlock with the first basket of fourth successive loss.

The second half and went on to score a 65-50 Fox Valley Catholic Conference win over Appleton Xavier Friday night.

The first half was a see-saw affair, with Roncalli leading by as much as six points, and Xavier's biggest lead standing at four. Mark Michels, who was making his first appearance of the season after recuperating from a football injury, scored the first bucket of the second half to put the jets ahead for good. It was Michels' only basket of the game.

Roncalli went on to score the first six points of the second half, but Xavier stayed tough and trailed by only four (37-33) with 1:57 left in the third quarter. The Jets led by five (42-37) at quarter's end.

The Jets roared out of sight by outscoring the Hawks, 14 to 3, in the first three minutes of the fourth period. Greg Jahnke scored seven of the points, as the Jets took a 56-40 lead.

Xavier's Mark Collar fired in 24 points to pace both teams. Jahnke produced 22 of Roncalli's points, and Jeff Salutz accounted for 10.

No-Blitzing Rule Lifted for Season's Pro Grid Finale

BY MIKE RATHET
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The National Conference All-Stars have been installed as slight favorites over the American Conference team for Sunday's Pro Bowl — the final flourish of a 265-game pro football season offering record prize money to the biggest winners.

When the lights finally go out at the Los Angeles Coliseum, three members of the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts will have added a third record, winner shares of $2,000 or loser shares of $1,500 to already bulging pockets.

The three are middle line-backer Mike Curtis, defensive end Bubba Smith and safety Jerry Logan, who will be playing for the AFC all stars beginning at 3 p.m. CST, in the game to be nationally televised by CBS.

In addition to their salaries, the three have already pocketed one fourteenth of their 1970 salaries for playing in the division playoffs, $8,500 for winning the AFC title game, $15,000 for winning the Super Bowl. And they'll get next season's salary for the college all-star game.

Sweet Pot

Taking a $28,000 salary figure as an example, winning here would bring the total prize loot of $29,500.

But winning that final prize will be anything but easy in greements with Chuck, will be the advent of the American Football League, bringing all the top stars of the sport onto one stage.

That in itself provides the game with glamor and interest.

ley, who hit several timely outside shots, canned 12.

Menasha's Jeff Pommerening led all scorers with 19 points, giving him 58 in three games since returning to action after suffering a shoulder injury in the first Neenah game, which the Rockets won by 35. Van Lieshout was runnerup with 11.

Continuing their fine free throw shooting, the Rockets put in 25 of 31 from the line, including 14 of 16 in the first half. Menasha hit 16 of 25.

The losers had a better field goal percentage (20 of 50) but the Rockets took 30 more shots (many of them tips) and hit 27. They chalked up only six of 27 in the first quarter.

Nussbaum and 6-6 Ed Ashmore, proved difficult to contain. Nussbaum connected on nine of 13 field shots and finished with 20 points. Ashmore chipped in with 16 points. Each came down with 10 rebounds, as Cornell outdid LU on the boards, 53 to 39. Jim Haley and Hal Myatt added 10 points apiece for the visitors.

Vikes Lose Gage

The Viking offense was crippled early in the game by the loss of Kevin Gage. Gage, who turned an ankle, had been averaging around 23 points per league game and had possessed a 20.7 rate, over-all.

Jim Dyer, shooting well from the outside, and 6-7 John Lannen, paced the Vike attack, with 14 points apiece.

LU led only twice — at 2-0 and 4-2. Ashmore threw in a hook shot with the game 3 minutes, 32 seconds old to break a 4-4 tie, and Cornell was never headed.

The second half was a nightmare for LU from the opening tip, Cornell funneled in six points (including two baskets on steals) before the Vikes even launched a shot — and it was 40-23.

Sinks 6 of 7

With Cornell sinking seven of its first nine field attempts, the onslaught continued, at 48-29. In the first 12-20 of the second half, the Rams outscored LU, 30 to 12 to build their lead to 64-35. Reserves played the final six minutes for Cornell and continued to widen the gap.

The Rams shot at a blistering, 23-for-43 field rate in the second half to bring their game-long percentage to .488 (39 of 80). LU shot only 30.1 per cent (22 of 73) against the Cornell zone and frequently applied press.

LU's Rick Farmer led all rebounders, with 11 retrievals.

Trucker '5' Tops Pulaski to Tie For 'Bay' Lead

CLINTONVILLE — Coach Carl Bruggink drove his Truckers basketball team to a share of the Bay Conference lead Friday by downing Pulaski, 54-48, in a deliberate-style contest.

The Truckers took advantage of a Pulaski loss to West De Pere Tuesday to move within one game, then did it them-

—the first opportunity for some accurate measuring sticks of stars now split into two conferences in the National Football League.

There is the unknown here," AC Coach John Madden of Oakland said. "And I think that's made for more seriousness among the players."

In addition, the prohibitions on blitzing that have been in for previous NFL and AFL all-star game have been lifted.

Each squad will have 41 players, running back Mel Farr of Detroit having previously been added to the NFC squad and wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland being added to the AFC team Friday when San Diego receiver Gary Garrison pulled a hamstring muscle.

Darryle Lamonica of Oakland, the AFC's starting quarterback, now has all three of his regular pass targets on hand—wide receivers Biletnikoff and Warren Wells and tight end Raymond Chester. Marlin Briscoe of Buffalo, however, will start ahead of Biletnikoff.

Lamonica, who will alternate with Miami's Bob Griese, will have Leroy Kelly of Cleveland and Herwig Dixon of Oakland and his starting running backs with Floyd Little of Denver and Larry Csonka of Miami in reserve.

Besides Csonka, Griese also will have one of his Dolphin teammates to throw at, Paul Warfield.

For the NFC, John Brodie of San Francisco will start at quarterback with two Gene Washingtons as his prime targets—his teammate on the 49ers and the Minnesota wide receiver.

The starting tight end will be Charlie Sanders of Detroit.

In the starting backfield with Brodie will be MacArthur Lane of St. Louis and Larry Brown of Washington, the No. 1 ground gainer in the NFL.

In reserve will be quarterback Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants, receivers Dick Gordon of Chicago and Carroll Dale of Green Bay and running backs Farr, Ron Johnson of the Giants and Dave Osborne of Minnesota.

There are six 1,000-yard producers on the two squads—Brown, Johnson, Gordon and the 49ers' Washington for the NFC, and Briscoe and Garrison for the AFC.

Two Groups Act In Push for New Buffalo Stadium

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Efforts to get a new sports stadium for Buffalo moved ahead on two fronts Friday.

A group of lawmakers made plans to pump new life into a proposal for a domed stadium while other officials discussed the possibility of building a different type stadium with state-backed money.

The action followed by two days the disclosure of federal and Erie County grand jury probes of the dome. The U.S. Justice Department has confirmed that a dome investigation is under way. Buffalo newspapers say it concerns allegations of bribery or extortion and attempted bribery.

The committee said it would recommend rebidding the project. The original construction bids came in last year at $73 million—$23 million higher than the legislature had allotted for the project.

Meantime, County Executive B. John Tutuska met with officials of the state Urban Development Corp. about the possibility of building a stadium with state bonds, which the county would repay.

Power Backfield

Bob Griese, will have Leroy Kelly of Cleveland and Herwig Dixon of Oakland as his starting running backs with Floyd Little of Denver and Larry Csonka of Miami in reserve.

Besides Csonka, Griese also will have one of his Dolphin teammates to throw at, Paul Warfield.

For the NFC, John Brodie of San Francisco will start at quarterback with two Gene Washingtons as his prime targets—his teammate on the 49ers and the Minnesota wide receiver.

night. Haas, meanwhile, poured through 21 points in the opening two quarters as the defenders gave him room to shoot rather than foul him.

The winners outscored Kaukauna 18-14 in the third period, and with both coaches clearing their benches in the final period, when the game was well out of reach, the winners outscored Kaukauna, 29-18. A total of 48 fouls were whistled in the game, 26 of them charged to Kaukauna. Kaukauna hit on 15 of 27 foul shots while Appleton hit 32 of 44.

Don Werner contributed 17 to the winning cause, Mike Milhaupt had 12 and Dan Kohl 13. Borchardt led Kaukauna with 16 while Dave Anderson, coming off the bench, contributed 11.

Papermakers Post 87-72 Win

Kimberly Riddles Oshkosh

BY ROD GNERLICH

OSHKOSH — Kimberly High School came up with a big first half then coasted to an 87-72 win over Oshkosh High Friday night.

The Papermakers rolled up 51 points in the first half enroute to a 51-32 lead, and only a mediocre third quarter kept them from blowing the Indians right out of the gym.

Four Papermakers hit double figures. Don Uelmen, who literally owned the base line in the first half led Kimberly with 17 points. Jim Rooyackers added 16, reserve Scott Appleton 14, and Mike Van Beek and Tim Valentyne 12 apiece.

The Indians Craig Whitney led all scorers with 20 points. Rod Heppler chipped in 16. John Plier 15, and Dave Mathe 12.

Oshkosh took its only lead of the game early with a 6-point burst, triggered by Heppler and Whitney. But the Papermakers' pressure defense and overwhelming rebounding swung the edge back their way, 8-6.

3-Point Plays

It was with the Papermakers holding a 10-9 lead that they actually bagged the game early. Valentyne and Van Beek turned rebounds into back to back three-point plays. These maneuvers were only the beginning of a 14-point burst that ran the Kimberly lead to 23-9. The first quarter ended 26-11.

The only things that stopped the Papermakers in the second quarter battle of spurts were the occasional paper planes that came out of the stands and held up play. The game Indians tried chopping away at the fat Papermaker lead by matching the length of the court with two early spurts then running off eight points to make it 37-25, 6-6 center, Larry Bahr, took the

Berlin Forces Overtime Bears, Tigers, Bulldogs Win

Hortonville escaped with an overtime victory over Berlin Friday, while Ripon streaked past Waupaca and challenging New London outscored Omro.

Hortonville (8-1) nearly blew a big lead and its share of first place before edging Berlin, 68-66. Ripon, also 8-1, started slowly but then scored an impressive, 72-59, win over Waupaca (3-6). New London (7-2) put on a third period scoring burst and made several steals en route to upending Omro, 80-69. Winnebago (2-7) eluded the cellar by stopping Weyauwega (2-7), 67-38.

Berlin forced the overtime on a spectacular play which went the length of the court with two seconds remaining. The Indians' Parsons arched 13.
